

Don Marquis' Column

BY POTTERGILL FINCH.
As I was riding down town
On an open car the other day
I saw a gentleman calmly
Scratch a match on his own eyeball
And light a cigar.
"What heroic indifference to pain!" I exclaimed.
Thinking the man must be a stoic.
What he can do, I thought,
I can do.
But I well-nigh ruined one of my eyes
And did not get a light—
Just then the car lurched.
And the man's eye fell out and rolled down the steps.
As he tried to recover his balance;
It bounced merrily along the street.
And I saw that it was glass.

I proposed marriage to my landlady
The other day.
I owe her so much I will never be able To pay it, and I thought Marriage the simplest and most honorable way out.
No, she said, with a sigh,
I will not marry you.
I used to do that, Mr. Finch, for years.
I married boarder after boarder Hoping that after marriage I could put them to work.
Or at least rifle their pockets
Now and then, and ultimately collect enough.
To square what they owed me . . .
But it was no use.
As soon as I married a boarder he would quit work entirely.
I have ceased to be romantic
About boarders, Mr. Finch.
You may think I have become sordid.
But, alas! one is obliged to look out for one's material Interests as one grows older.
And then, there are the children to consider . . .
No, Mr. Finch, I must have the money;
I will never marry another boarder.

Ferdie Bink is one of the saddest men I ever saw.
Was it Woman, Ferdie, I asked him,
that saddened you so?
It is always Woman, said Ferdie . . .
And he told me the story.
Once, said Ferdie, before I became a vers libre poet,
I was one of the press agents for a circus.
I fell in love with two beautiful young women;
They were twins.
They were twins of the sort called Siamese.
And they were in our show . . .
Etta and Netta were their names,
And there was no fake about them.
They really were connected, and had been born so, by a ligament, of some sort.
They were the most beautiful women
I have ever seen.
Etta and Netta, I would say to them,
marry your Ferdie!
He loves you!
Which one of us are you proposing to?
They would ask.
I look upon you as one woman, I would answer.
You must choose between us, they would reply.
What God hath joined together let no man put asunder, I would remind them.
Both loved me, and the right-hand
twin, Etta, was jealous of Netta, the left-hand twin.
It was tragic the way they would sit and quarrel over me.
Imagine being tied tight to a person you hate and not being willing to speak to him for weeks at a time.
We can't both marry you, said
Etta.
It wouldn't be moral, said Netta . . .
Unless we became Mormons, said
Etta.
And having been brought up very strictly in the Methodist Church, said Netta, no Mormon-istic goings-on shall ever disgrace this family.
You must choose between us, said
Netta.
I look upon you as one woman, I said,
and no knife shall cut my love
in two.
But I finally consented to an operation in the hospital.
I had to make a choice, and I would leave it to chance.
The day that they were operated on I went into the fields and plucked a dozen daisies.
And as I approached the hospital
I picked the petals from the plants.
Saying Etta, Netta; Etta, Netta; Etta,
Netta.
In this poetic manner I was to choose between them.
Alas! I should have known better Than to have allowed any fussing to be done with a Freak.
They aren't like other people . . .
Anything you do to a Freak changes his entire Disposition.
The operation had been a success,
But as I went up the steps of the hospital Smiling and plucking the petals from my daisies, Etta and Netta had both ceased to love me, and I was left alone.
The right-hand twin was wedding
the young Surgeon who had performed the operation.
And the left-hand twin was making arrangements to slope
With an interne.
And that, Pottergill, is why I am so sad!

A school of sharks is on its way to these shores, says a sea captain.
They will find little to teach our food speculators.

If Holland is really starving, she might eat her food instead of sending it into Germany.

THE CITY'S SOCIAL SIDE

Spring-Rice Is Guest of Hohler For Hot Period

The British Ambassador, Sir Cecil Arthur Spring-Rice, since his return from a short visit to his family, at Woods Hole, Mass., is staying with the second counselor of the embassy, Thomas E. Bauman, who has established bachelor quarters at 2330 Massachusetts avenue.

Lieut. Col. the Hon. Murrough O'Brien, military attaché of the embassy, returned to town yesterday after accompanying Mrs. O'Brien and their children to Newport.

The Russian Ambassador, Prof. Boris Bakhtietoff, and his staff, returned to Washington last evening from New York. The ambassador is established at 2222 B street, where he will maintain the embassy until autumn.

Congressman and Mrs. Frederick H. Gillett will entertain at dinner at Grasslands this evening with Miss Elizabeth Harding and her fiancé, Frederick Henry Prince, Jr., as guests of honor. The thirty guests will include the members of Miss Harding's bridal party and a number of the young friends of Mrs. Gillett's daughter, the Misses Frances and Louise Hoar.

Tomorrow evening Miss Harding's father, W. P. G. Harding, of the Federal Reserve Board, will entertain at dinner for his daughter and her attendants, and on Saturday evening Mr. and Mrs. Charles A. Munn, who are in Washington for a short visit, will give a dinner dance for the members of the bridal party. The wedding will take place on Saturday at noon.

John Barrett, director general of the Pan-American Union, entertained a box party at the Belasco Theater last evening, having as his guests Maj. Gen. and Mrs. George Barnett, Mrs. Jacques Futrelle, Miss Virginia Futrelle, and Francisco J. Yanes, assistant director of the Pan-American Union.

Mr. Barrett entertained at dinner at the Powhatan for his guests before the theater, and later took them to supper at the Willard. The party was given in honor of Mrs. Futrelle and Miss Futrelle.

Others in the audience at the Belasco last evening were Miss Edith Benham, Mrs. William A. Slater, Jr., Major and Mrs. Thomas Holcomb, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Victor Kauffmann and their son, Samuel H. Kauffmann, and Paymaster Richard A. U. S. N. R., and Mrs. Micou.

The Second Secretary of the French Embassy, Mlle de Laboulaye, has leased a cottage at Cape May, N. J., for the remainder of the summer, and will leave town on Saturday to take possession.

"The Call of the Allies," written and presented by Mrs. Christian Hemmick, will be given at the National Sylvan Theater tomorrow evening at 8 o'clock in honor of French Day and the visiting allies. In case of rain the performance will be given on Saturday evening.

McAdoo Picks New Home.
The Secretary of the Treasury and Mrs. William Gibbs McAdoo have taken the residence 1312 Sixteenth street, where former Attorney General and Mrs. George Wickesham made their home during their residence in Washington, for next winter, and will move in when Mrs. McAdoo returns to town in October.

Mrs. Futrelle, widow of Jacques Futrelle, the novelist, and her daughter, Miss Virginia Futrelle, are in Washington for a visit, and are stopping at the Powhatan Hotel. Mrs. Futrelle's son, John Futrelle, has entered the Naval Academy as a midshipman.

Mme. Riano Going To Maine Resort For the Summer

Mme. Riano, wife of the Spanish ambassador, will leave Washington on Monday for York Harbor, Me., where she will pass the greater part of the summer. Her brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Chandler Anderson, have a cottage there for the season. The ambassador is making no plans to leave Washington, as the press of official business is engaging his time and attention.

Mrs. Shackelford Miller, who has been in Washington for a short visit to her son, Shackelford Miller, Jr., a student officer at Fort Myer, has returned to her home in Louisville, Ky., and Mrs. Miller will come to town for the marriage of their son and Miss Frances Effinger, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. Frederick Effinger, on August 11.

The Minister of Panama and Mme. de Porras entertained at a dinner last night, at the Hotel Powhatan, the ambassador of Argentina, Dr. Naoni; the Minister of Bolivia, M. Calderon; and the Minister of Cuba and Mme. de Cespedes.

Announcement was made yesterday by Mrs. John H. Shipley, of Portsmouth, N. H., of the engagement of her daughter, Miss Marion Shipley, to Carroll Robertson, of New York. Miss Shipley's father was the late Captain John H. Shipley, U. S. N., who at the time of his death, about three years ago, was naval attaché at the American embassy in Tokyo, Japan.

Mr. Robertson is a member of the Racquet Club, of Philadelphia, Pa., and the St. Nicholas Club, in New York, with the reserve officers. The wedding will take place in two weeks in New York.

Among the spectators from a distance in the galleries of the Senate and House yesterday were Mrs. H. A. Nuth, Miss Reese, of Canterbury, New Zealand, and Mrs. Anne R. Finch-Fraser, of Mexico. These ladies have been touring the States.

Mrs. George W. Vanderbilt and Mrs. Cornelia Vanderbilt have returned to Washington after a visit to Mrs. William D. Sloane and Mrs. George Grenville Merrill at Lenox, Mass.

Anson-Van Wageningen.
The marriage of William Anson, a son of the Earl of Lichfield, and brother of the third earl, now an American citizen, and Miss Louise Van Wageningen, a daughter of Mr. Frederick Van Wageningen, of New York, was celebrated at 5:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon in the little chapel of the Church of the Incarnation, New York, the ceremony being performed by the Rev. Thomas Reed Bridges.

The bride's uncle, Dr. Andrew J. Gilmour, gave her in marriage. Her sister, Mrs. James T. Terry, was her matron of honor and only attendant, and Frederick Potts Moore was Mr. Anson's best man. A small reception was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Anson.

Mr. Anson is the owner of a large ranch near San Angelo, Tex., where he and his bride will make their home. Mr. Anson is a younger brother of Alfred Anson, who married Mrs. Emery, widow of J. J. Emery, and of Francis Anson, who married a Miss Cleveland, and whose home is in London. He is also a brother of Lady Streetfield, Lady Radson, Lady Ryder and the Countess of Lovelace. He has made his home in the United States for about twenty years, and several years ago became a citizen.

Mr. Anson, who is a member of an old New York family, was graduated from Smith College, where he played leading parts in the college plays and became noted for his ability as an amateur actress. She was graduated from Smith College in 1911 and then studied for the stage. She first appeared with Margaret Anglin in "Lady Windermere's Fan," and the next year she played with Cyril Maude in "Grumpy" and remained with him until the company stopped playing recently in California. Mr. Maude going to Australia.

The engagement was announced in June.

Miss Dorothy Shuey Will Be Bride of Diplomat Aug. 16

Miss Dorothy Shuey, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Shuey, and Christopher F. Smith, of the Norwegian diplomatic service, have selected Thursday, August 16, as the date of their marriage. The ceremony will take place at noon in St. Matthew's Church, and will be followed by a reception at Raucher's. The wedding party is not yet complete.

Mr. and Mrs. George Richard Smith announce the engagement of their daughter, Miss Marie Eugenia Smith, to Lieut. Comdr. Hollis Taylor Winslow, U. S. N. The wedding will take place early in September.

Miss Smith is a sister of Mrs. John Howard Hoover, wife of Lieutenant Hoover, U. S. N.

Miss Elizabeth Wiley, who passed the early summer at Ardmore, Pa., has gone to Provincetown, Mass., for a two months' art course at the Summer Art Colony. Her mother and sister, Mrs. Henry Wiley and Miss Roberta Wiley, are at their summer home at Pointe a Pic, Canada.

The Duke de Senger, lieutenant in the Italian army, who was in Washington with the Italian Mission, is in New York, where he has been staying at the Ritz-Carlton hotel for some weeks.

Mrs. E. Hope Slater gave a luncheon yesterday at Hopewell, her Newport home, for Mrs. Charles E. Alexander, who is stopping with her daughter, Mrs. Winthrop W. Aldrich. Mrs. Alexander was also the honor guest at a tea which Mrs. J. Laurens Van Allen gave yesterday afternoon and at a dinner last evening with Rev. Dr. and Mrs. Roderick Terry at hosts.

T. P. O'Connor and Richard Hasleton, Irish members of the British Parliament, will be among the guests at the tea dance at the Training Camp Club on Saturday afternoon, and a number of French officers will also be present. Mrs. William A. Slater and Mrs. Arthur Willert will be hostesses.

Mr. and Mrs. Beale R. Howard have arrived at Kennebunkport, Me., where they will pass some weeks. They made the trip from Washington by motor, stopping en route for a short visit to Mrs. Howard's sister, Mrs. May Adams, at her cottage at Bass Rocks, Mass.

Count and Countess Vladimir Ledochowski are receiving congratulations on the birth of a daughter. The countess, who was Miss Louise Warfield, is the daughter of Edwin Warfield, once governor of Maryland. Count and Countess Ledochowski have been in America some time as guests of Mr. and Mrs. Warfield at their home in Baltimore.

William Francis Boland, of Germantown, Montgomery county, Md., has sent out invitations for the marriage of his daughter, Miss Josephine Leone Boland, to Hobart Henry Ramsdell, of Charleston, S. C., son of the late Rev. Charles B. Ramsdell and of Mrs. May Brooks Ramsdell, of this city. The ceremony will be performed on July 28 in St. Rose's Church, at Cloppers, Md., at 9:30 a. m., followed by nuptial mass. A breakfast will be given the wedding party in the home of the bride's father afterward. It was in this same picturesque church that, on May 12, the bridegroom's younger brother, Paul Charles Ramsdell, of this city, was married to Miss Frances Wade, and the bride and bridegroom-to-be were best man and maid of honor at the wedding. Mr. and Mrs. Paul Ramsdell are spending the summer in the latter's old home at Cloppers.

Carol Harriman Becomes Bride Of R. P. Smith

Miss Carol A. Harriman, daughter of Mrs. E. H. Harriman, was married at noon yesterday to Richard Penn Smith, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. William Penn Smith, of Philadelphia, in St. John's Episcopal Church at Arden, N. Y. The Rev. Dr. J. Holmes McGuiness, of Chester, N. Y., officiated. The little church was decorated with roses from the Harriman conservatory. When the wedding party started from Arden House, the home of the bride, it was raining heavily, but the shower was soon over, and the sun shone on the couple as they returned to the house for the breakfast and reception.

W. Averell Harriman gave his sister in marriage. She wore a gown of cream-white satin and duchesse lace, and her veil of lace was caught up with a coronet of diamonds.

Slater With Bride.
Miss Kitty Penn Smith, sister of the bridegroom, was maid of honor and the bride's only attendant. She wore a frock of Belgian blue embroidered chiffon, with a large hat of brown tulle. Henry N. Tucker served as best man. E. Roland N. Harriman, the bride's brother, and her brother-in-law, R. L. Gerry, met the little company of guests at the door and showed them to their seats.

Mr. Harriman, who holds a lieutenant's commission in the army and on special duty in the Ordnance Bureau of the War Department, went on from Washington for the wedding, accompanied by Mrs. Harriman.

Honeymoon in Idaho.
Mr. Smith and his bride will spend their honeymoon on Mrs. Harriman's ranch in Idaho. He expects to join the army soon, and would have done so before this but for the fact that his arm was broken recently in the hunting field.

There was widespread interest when the young couple's engagement was announced in June. The bride is the youngest daughter of the famous railroad man. Her sisters are Mrs. Charles C. Rumsey and Mrs. Robert Livingston Gerry. She has been active in society since her debut in 1909 and keenly interested in outdoor sports.

Mr. Smith's father is a prominent banker of Philadelphia, connected with the firm of Cassatt & Co., of that city, and is president of the Chester Valley Hunt.

The marriage of Miss Lillian M. Poore and Thomas S. Sawyer, of the Medical Department, U. S. A., took place this afternoon in the Brightwood Catholic Church, the Rev. Father Frank Bischoff officiating. Henry S. Blaseff was best man and the ushers were John Masters, Cyrus Wood, Max Reisenberg, George E. Levalley, and Guido P. Mayer. Mr. and Mrs. Smalley will be at home at Brightwood the latter part of July.

CREDIT BUREAU PLANS APPROVED BY EXPERT

Comprehensive plans for development of the credit bureau of the Retail Merchants' Association along the most practical and useful lines were made at a conference last night between the committee on supervision and M. Martin Kallman, efficiency expert recently employed by the R. P. Andrews Paper Company.

Mr. Kallman commended the steps which have been taken by the bureau along the lines of credit protection and other business processes, and outlined a system which it is believed will insure both speed and accuracy in handling credit reports.

Charles J. Columbus, secretary of the Retail Merchants' Association, said today that Mr. Kallman is now studying other branches of the association, and has under consideration plans for a bureau of employment, which the association plans to establish.
